I would also very much appreciate any advice or recommendations you could give for the creation of a first person shooter with a 3D engine. I am not so worried about the details and coding of the movement but rather the textures and the effects such as reflections and fire. Thanks in advance. :) Hi. I very much agree with the approach you are taking. This is exactly what I was going to say, but didn't have the time to write a proper post. But there is no much code involved, because you are not coding anything yet. (Except maybe a bit of "if" statements) The only thing you should consider right now is the possibility to work in fullscreen mode for your game, which would give you a lot of power over the graphics/texture/shadow/lights etc. Now, I don't have the time to write the framework. But you will definetly find stuff like this: This is a very good intro to 3D game programming.

Preferable "First Shot" mode with the BPM about 100.Charles Bridge Charles Bridge is the name of three bridges in Prague, Czech Republic. Charles Bridge, is a stone bridge built in the Gothic style in 1357, connecting the Old Town (Stare Město) with the New Town (Nové Město). This was the first of the three Charles Bridges that were built, linking Prague Castle with the Old Town. This bridge was named after Charles IV, the first ruler of the House of Luxemburg, who served as the inspiration for both Prague castle and the Prague walls. The construction of Charles Bridge was overseen by a merchant from Linz, named Peter Parler, who was later appointed the first town magistrate of Prague. The second Charles Bridge, built in 1485–1495, is the most important architectural monument in Prague, combining a Gothic suspension bridge and a Renaissance facade. This bridge was named after Charles II, the first ruler of the House of Habsburg, who ruled much of Central Europe and was much admired by Prague. This second Charles Bridge was also built by Parler
